

BOMB WRECKS DEN OF GAMBLERS; PANIC IN NEARBY HOTELS

Guests Stampede In Streets In New York's Uptown District.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Sending guests scurrying from the nearby hotels and creating the wildest alarm in adjacent streets, a bomb exploded early today in the basement entrance at 131 West Forty-fifth street. The bomb undoubtedly was exploded by a time fuse and the outrage is believed to have been prompted by recent gambling raids.

The wrecked building was known as "Rachet's Place," a gambling resort, and was raided by the police four months ago. The explosion could be heard for a mile or more, and doors and windows were smashed in the immediate neighborhood.

Following New York's recent fire horror and the agitation over this city's "era of crime," great excitement ensued throughout the hotel district. Guests rushed into the streets, some not fully clad; telephone girls were besieged with inquiries, and the police, until the reserves arrived, were powerless to check the crowds who thronged in the direction of the bomb-wrecked building.

Where Excitement Reigns.

In the Knickerbocker, Cadillac, Astor, Belmont, Waverly, Lyceum, and other hotels, frightened guests in droves jammed the elevators, rushed pell-mell through lobbies, and made hasty exits. In the streets they seemed hurrying in one direction, and there was a stampede toward West Forty-fifth street. No one knew the cause or extent of the disaster and the frightened New Yorkers pictured a possible repetition of the Washington square fire horror of ten days ago.

Fourth Bomb Outrage.

Today's explosion is the fourth and most terrific of the bomb outrages to follow the gambling raids. Evidently the bomb had been placed and the time fuse arranged in the early morning hours and the explosion came at the time liable to cause the most alarm.

Houses throughout the entire block were damaged to a considerable extent, and the basement entrance to "Rachet's Place" was utterly demolished. Concrete floors were ripped, doors were smashed, and glass windows broken within a radius of several hundred feet of the former gambling den.

As yet no clew has been found as to the perpetrator. The police are confident it is the direct result of the crusade against gambling, and since there have been three prior explosions since the anti-gambling campaign began, New York finds itself somewhat in the category with Chicago, where sections of which city were partially struck by a very much more by similar retaliations by the gamblers.

District Fire Loss In March Hundred Thousand

Fire losses in the District of Columbia during the month of March amounted to $105,841, covered by an insurance of $499,690, according to the monthly report of Chief W. A. R. of the Fire Department, submitted to the Commissioners today.

The fire at the baseball park occupied the greatest share of the total estimate being placed at $23,500. The loss from the Kentworth fire, the next largest, is estimated at $4,500.

During the month 137 alarms of fire were received, of which twelve were false. Report is made of the death of Emma Fletcher, colored, who died as a result of injuries received in a fire at 1119 First street southeast, March 2. Thirteen firemen were slightly injured during the month.

Mrs. Story's Candidacy Urged in New Circular

Another circular is today added to the Daughters of American Revolution campaign literature. It contains the story of the woman, and will be mailed to every chapter of the society in America. It aims to show the strength of Mrs. William Cummins Story's candidacy for president general, and endorses her.

Among the District Daughters whose names are attached to the circular are Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood, Mrs. George T. Smallwood, State regent, Mrs. Augustus C. Ger, Mrs. Madison A. Ballinger, Miss Julia Ten Eyck McHarris, Mrs. M. E. Davis, Miss Virginia Miller, and Mrs. Lillian Pike Boone.

Twenty-nine States are represented on the circular, which, however, does not claim to be an official endorsement by these States of Mrs. Story's candidacy.

Sheriff's Attachment For Eckert "Widow"

NEW YORK, April 7.—Surrogate Colahan has ordered attorneys for James C. Eckert, who is contesting the will of his father, Gen. T. T. Eckert, of the Western Union, to obtain a sheriff's attachment for Mrs. E. L. Davies, who on Monday alleged before the surrogate that she was General Eckert's widow and entitled to participate in his estate. Mrs. Davies failed to substantiate her claims.

Counsel for the Eckert children made affidavit that the claims of the woman were false.

THREE MAKE LEAP IN RUNAWAY DASH

Jump From Wagon As Frightened Team Goes Over An Embankment In Anacostia — Block and Tackle Necessary to Get Wagon Back on Roadway.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU, ANACOSTIA, D. C., APRIL 7.

When the two-horse team of Harry E. Lusby, a resident of Tee Bee, Prince George county, Md., ran away on Pennsylvania avenue extended last evening about 8 o'clock, while conveying a load of furniture to the city, it appeared certain to spectators that several persons would be injured and much property damaged. However, no persons were hurt, while damage to the team and furniture was slight.

The horses were frightened by an automobile that passed them at a high rate of speed. Mr. Lusby was accompanying his team in a buggy. Benjamin Kotes, colored, was driving the two-horse team. The furniture was piled high in the open wagon. On the load of furniture were Mille, Henrietta, and Walter Chase, young colored people.

The horses dashed off when frightened by the automobile, and Driver Kotes was unable to control them. A score of people watched the runaway. When they had reached in this fashion for a quarter of a mile the horses swerved and went over the steep bank on the east of the highway, plunging down a cut 100 feet deep. As they went over the bank the occupants of the team jumped.

At the bottom of the bank the animals ran into a tree, which held them. It had not been for this tree the animals would have plunged down another cut, fully 300 feet deep, and would, undoubtedly, have been killed. The police reserves, the Eleventh precinct went to the scene. No one was hurt, but it was necessary to procure a block and tackle to raise the wagon out of the cut. The horses were led out of the woods by another route. The furniture was hardly disturbed. The mirror of a bureau was broken, and the wagon tongue, Mr. Lusby estimated his damage at $5. The automobilists did not stop.

Mrs. Margaret Roseman, living at 1303 Eleventh street southeast, proprietor of a store at 513 Nichols avenue, is confined to her home today as the result of a fall during the night down a flight of steps in her place of business.

She had been rendered unconscious by the fall, was attended by a local physician, and was then taken to her home.

She had heard another occupant of the premises coughing, and thinking the woman was ill, she hastened to her in the darkness, with the results stated.

J. B. Compton, manager of the grocery store conducted by J. T. D. Pyles, at 128 Good Hope road, has reported to the police that he had been threatened that an effort was made to break into the store on Wednesday night. It was unsuccessful, however, and it is thought the intruder was frightened away.

Members of the four Methodist Episcopal churches comprised within the Forestville, Prince George county, Maryland circuit, are speculating as to the identity of their pastor for the next year, the Baltimore annual conference having adjourned without having filled the position of pastor vacated by the Rev. W. C. Harden through the action of the conference. Mr. Harden was transferred to a church at Herndon, Va., after serving the Maryland congregations for three years. The conference indicated that the Rev. Mr. Juddleton, of Telegton, who has been serving as an assistant to Mr. Harden, will act in the place of a pastor pending a regular appointment.

The funeral of Mrs. George Davis, who was the wife of a well-known citizen of Anacostia, her death occurring on Wednesday in one of the city hospitals, was held this afternoon from the family home, 726 Shannon place. The body was buried in the Congressional Cemetery. Mrs. Davis is survived by her husband and two small children.

The Brotherhood of the Anacostia Methodist Episcopal Church will meet tonight in Methodist Hall.

This will be one of the meetings when the youth of the church will be admitted to the session in order to participate in the exercises.

The assignment of the Rev. Merritt Earle, of Washington, to the pastorate of the Congress Heights Methodist Episcopal Church by the Baltimore annual conference to succeed the Rev. W. M. McK. Hammack, who has retired, was pleasing to the congregation of the church. Mr. Earle has been assisting the Rev. Mr. Hammack for several months, and as soon as it was known that the latter would be unable to return to the charge the choice of the congregation for pastor fell upon Mr. Earle.

The Rev. Samuel W. Griffin, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Anacostia, last evening concluded a series of prayer meeting topics he has been discussing during the winter. His subject was "The Ministry."

Following a wedding trip, they will take up their residence in Galtersburg, where Mr. Mullican is engaged in business.

Edgar L. Tschiffely has purchased from Miss Mittie Anderson a residence on the main street of Rockville just east of the Southern Methodist Church.

Howard Hopkins, a young negro, pleaded guilty in the circuit court here to an indictment charging him with carrying concealed weapons, and was sentenced by Judge Peter to six months in the house of correction.

For a similar offense, Lawrence Smith, colored, was sent to the same institution for one year, but Smith aggravated his offense by threatening to use his weapon.

Plan Lectures to School Children on Good Manner

Officials of the public schools have decided on a course of lectures designed to teach the principles of good manners and politeness. The movement is not merely local. The lectures to be given here by Milton Fairchild, director of instruction of the moral education board of Baltimore, will be a replica of lectures which will be heard by public school children all over the country.

The lectures will begin April 18 at the Business High School. Merchant Exonerated Short-Weight Charge

The case of S. M. Green has been dismissed in District branch of Police Court. Green was charged with selling short weight olive oil. He was one of the defendants brought to court in the crusade recently started against alleged short weight merchants.

At the trial it was stipulated that Green had told the agent of the seal of weights and measure's office, who bought the oil, that it was sold by the can and not by the quart. On this testimony Judge A. B. Mulloony dismissed the case.

VENUS SAVED FROM COLD AIR AND THE GAZE OF BROADWAY

Pried From Arms of Plumber, Who Denied He Stole Bronze Beauty.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Taking all sorts of risks on pneumonia, Venus, who, according to her portraits, has never encumbered herself with a superfluity of clothing, ventured into Herald Square. She was shy a couple of arms, but of any other evidence of shyness there was none. Bearing herself with an assurance of manner most remarkable under the circumstances she started on a promenade in Broadway.

Least the breath of scandal rest ever so lightly upon the goddess it should be said that her stroll was not undertaken of her own volition. Far from it, she was carried under the arm of Joseph Gilmore, who, as a proof of veracity, is a plumber's helper and a collector of art.

It was while in a store on Sixth avenue that his eye fell upon Venus. So susceptible is Mr. Gilmore to the art of the ancients that he picked up Venus. At his heels was a store detective.

Even though the bronze Venus was eighteen inches high and weighed twenty pounds, Mr. Gilmore made very good time, and it was not the store detective, but a policeman in Herald Square, who stopped him.

"Who is the lady?" asked the policeman. "Friend of mine," answered Gilmore, giving the customary counterplan.

"She looks," said the policeman, "like a stolen statue. Wait a bit till this detective gets here."

Under protest Mr. Gilmore, collector of art, waited while shoppers crowded round him and the policeman and audibly enquired the fair goddess with living women who have more clothes but less good looks. When the detective came up Mr. Gilmore and his treasure were taken to the Jefferson market court.

There, while Venus looked on coldly at the throng in the courtroom, Mr. Gilmore pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. This particular Venus being valued at $30. Magistrate House held the plumber's helper in bonds of $1,500 in default of which he was taken to a cell.

The store detective, a considerable soul, remembered that this spring weather is tricky and that Venus was to say the very least, insufficiently clad, tossed an overcoat over her and took her back to the store.

Wages Aeroplane Will Fly Across Atlantic

ST. LOUIS, April 7.—Two years from today, Albert Bond Lambert, millionaire president of the Aero Club of St. Louis, will either be out $1,000 or will be $1,000 richer than he is now. Lambert thinks that within two years time an aeroplane will be able to cross the Atlantic ocean and make the flight in eighteen hours. He has made a wager of $1,000 with some unknown.

Bubonic Plague Feared In Philippine Epidemic

HAVANA, April 7.—A light form of the bubonic plague, it is feared, has appeared in Los Palacios, in the Pinar del Rio province. Several physicians who have made analyses of the germs, say the disease has marked bubonic indications. The official analysis, however, takes the opposite view, although it gives no name to the disease.

SOCIETY GIRLS FLY IN AIRSHIP, BUT DO NOT GO HIGH IN AIR

Aviator Lets Them Sit In Biplane As It Runs Along Ground.

Terra firma aviation was the variety furnished the hundreds of society folk who lined the speedway around Potomac Park in anticipation of seeing air trips made by some of Washington's social leaders yesterday afternoon.

In none of the "flights" was an altitude of over fifteen feet reached, and the aeroplane remained suspended in the air for only a few yards of the half-mile straightaway.

Except for the few times that the machine was lifted off the ground for short distances the trips around the park were covered by running along the ground on the wheels provided for gaining sufficient impetus to start the flight.

Miss Laura Merriam and Miss Dorothy Williams, who were taken for a ride by Aviator Antony Jannus, complained because they were not lifted higher off the ground and covered such a small part of the course in the air. When they asked for a second and more sensational climb it was explained that the damp weather of the last few days had so affected the canvas wings that it was impossible to make more flights that day.

Miss Merriam was told by Rex Smith, owner of the aeroplane, that she would be invited to go again at some other time.

The aeroplane was not taken to the park until after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, because the wind was too strong, and several trips around the park were made on the ground before a flight was attempted.

Nat. M. Willis was the first passenger to be carried yesterday afternoon.

Its action is so mild that it can be given to a baby—in fact, thousands of mothers buy it for their children—and yet it is sufficiently strong so that the most robust person will get action. People who use Syrup Pepsin never again take salts or cathartic pills, which often, by their violence, do much to upset the stomach, for Syrup Pepsin is pleasant to take and does its work permanently. Many have been able to do away entirely with the use of medicines after but a brief experience with Dr. Caldwell's wonderful remedy. It is sold in fifty cent and one dollar bottles and any druggist can supply you. But if you prefer to make a trial of it first send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will forward a free sample bottle to your home.

"It is with great pleasure that I recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. For years my husband was a constant sufferer from indigestion and biliousness. I gave him everything I could think of, but he grew rapidly worse. I happened to think of the bottle of Syrup Pepsin a friend had left with me, which I would not give up. I gave it to him and he improved from the first two doses. He is now a well man and we have never been without Syrup Pepsin in the house since."—Mrs. D. M. Davis, Griggsville, Ill.
